What teachers say about our school tours ...

"Students enjoyed seeing the different tools, clothing, and the way nature is used during the Tovaave program. It's one thing to read about it. However, it is different being able to see it."

What students say about our school tours ...

"The gardens were so interesting and very beautiful. My favorite part of the gardens was the shell midden where we learned about the Tongva people. I also loved the native garden walk!"

Rancho Los Alamitos, the “Ranch of the Little Cottonwoods,” is a Long Beach City Landmark and twice-listed on the National Register of Historic Places. The Rancho is located on Tongva-Gabrielino land known as Povuun’nga. From the Tongva people who lived and gathered at Povuun’nga through waves of newcomers from all over the world, the site has nurtured a great diversity of peoples and cultures over thousands of years. Today, the 7½-acre site includes four acres of nationally significant historic gardens, a ranch house (1790-1933), and a restored barnyard of the early 20th-century working ranch. We invite you to visit, wander garden trails, learn from knowledgeable docents and volunteers, meet the barnyard’s resident livestock (horses, sheep, goats, chickens, and ducks), and explore California history.
